

The CAD Guys ♦ represents a group of skilled and talented engineers, draftsmen, and technical professionals who have come together to assist small and medium businesses in the product design and development lifecycle.

Advances in Computer Aided Design (CAD) such as parametric modelling have greatly decreased the costs of product development. You could reap the benefits of these advances with a little help from The CAD Guys.

With 3D Modelling, The CAD Guys can first create the parts, assemble them, then check interferences and clearances even before a drawing has been produced. ♦ This gives you the peace of mind that the parts you produce will come together first time, every time.

If you need engineering ♦ drawings to get your product made call the CAD Guys, we have extensive experience in creating drawings to AS1100 and military standards. We have completed work on high profile military vehicles, developed drawings for precision engineering shops we have also been involved in creating shop drawings from house plans. What ever your needs give us a try.